RELATIVE VALUE OF BUSINESS OBJECTIVES

Organizations must manage their performance by aligning themselves to their business objectives. Business objectives are however not all equal in nature. The Spring 2010 Release of MS2C provides users with a weighting system that permits the creation of the relative importance of each business objectives,

Logically, users can now report, monitor and control the performance of their business considering the relative weight of each business objective, making their decision process even more accurate. The overall score of each scorecard can then also reflect the overall importance of each success, in a way working like a set of indexes and sub-indexes.
